MASTER OF EDUCATION (M.ED.) MAJOR IN MANAGEMENT OF TECHNICAL EDUCATION

Program Overview
The Department of Organization, Workforce, and Leadership Studies also offers the Master of Education (M.Ed.) degree for those interested in supervision. The M.Ed. degree has a major in Management of Technical Education and is a highly specialized degree program. It is designed to assist an individual in learning skills that would enhance his or her performance in managing technical education in either an education or an industrial setting. The degree provides the broad skills necessary for an educator or trainer to become a better instructor and manager of instruction. In this program, students develop instructional and managerial competencies through various courses in curriculum design and delivery, instructional improvement, human performance technology, class organization, management, teaching/learning styles, diversity, understanding organizations, and program evaluation. Course schedules are flexible to accommodate the needs of working professionals, and many courses are offered in online and hybrid formats. This option allows students to complete courses from home and study whenever and wherever is convenient. Hybrid courses meet three times each semester, and the remainder of the work is online. Contact the department chair of Department of Organization, Workforce, and Leadership Studies or go to http://www.owls.txstate.edu/ for more information.
