In the face of Williamson County's substantial annual growth, with a population now over 700,000, the Round Rock Campus is strategically positioned to continue meeting the evolving needs of the area. The campus proudly presents a diverse array of programs, encompassing 18 undergraduate and 11 graduate options in critical areas such as healthcare, business, computer science and technology, education, psychology and social work, as well as communications. Whether students are incoming freshmen, transfer students, or graduate students, Texas State Round Rock Campus offers academic options to suit all needs.

Texas State Round Rock Campus is committed to delivering affordable, hands-on learning experiences that equip students for successful careers. Emphasizing flexible class times, the educational experience extends beyond conventional boundaries, offering a dynamic mix of face-to-face and online classes. Beyond traditional academic programs, the Professional Studies division enriches the campus offerings by providing a range of certifications and upskilling programs, allowing individuals to enhance their knowledge and skills to navigate today's digital and rapidly changing economy.

For those seeking more information, prospective students can explore Texas State Round Rock Campus or peruse the academic program offerings at www.rrc.txst.edu (<http://www.rrc.txst.edu/>). Alternatively, they can reach out to the admissions office or the graduate college. Texas State Round Rock Campus stands as the intersection where excellence meets opportunity, encouraging students to ignite their potential.
