Our departmental faculty members have garnered impressive teaching, research, and service experiences across a wide variety of national, international, and global business contexts. As a result of their commitment to high quality endeavors, management faculty members have won numerous college, university, and national awards for scholarship, teaching, and service.

Balancing a focus on theory and practice, we have developed a graduate management curriculum that includes courses in entrepreneurship, human resource management, international management, operations management, organizational behavior, and strategy. In addition, special topic courses allow our faculty to offer in-depth examination of a number of contemporary business issues such as business ethics and labor relations and negotiations.
