Major in Consumer Affairs

Majors have a choice of three different degree plans. Students choosing the Consumer Affairs major with a concentration in personal financial management, study family financial decisions, financial counseling and the role of the consumer in the economy and select a minor. Students prepare for careers in financial counseling, business consumer liaisons, consumer advocates, or government agency employees. In the Family and Consumer Sciences concentration, students take courses from all areas of Family and Consumer Sciences and select a minor. Majors seek employment in business, the extension service, and community agencies. The teacher certification, approved by the Texas Education Agency, certifies graduates to teach Family and Consumer Sciences in 6-12th grades. See note below regarding admittance to the Child Development Center and Texas Teacher Certification Requirements.

Major in Human Development and Family Sciences

Students prepare for careers in public and private family and child support programs and community agencies including Early Childhood Intervention, Child Protective Services, foster care and adoption programs, health care, and early care and education facilities. Using an interdisciplinary approach, students focus on human development and relationships across the lifespan. As a condition for participation in a child development class that requires either observation or participation at the campus Child Development Center, students must undergo a criminal background check and provide verification of an annual TB test. See note below regarding admittance to the Child Development Center and Texas Teacher Certification Requirements.

Major in Fashion Merchandising

Fashion Merchandising majors are prepared for a variety of careers in the fashion industry including: retail management, buying, planning, allocating, fashion marketing and promotions. Students gain valuable hands-on experience through computer-based assignments, cutting-edge merchandising technology, internships, and study tours. Majors are required to complete a business administration minor to enhance their preparation for the fashion industry. Students may pursue a planning and presentation concentration.

Major in Interior Design

The interior design major prepares students for careers in all areas of the field, including residential and commercial interior design. The program is accredited by the Council for Interior Design Accreditation (CIDA), the recognized accrediting agency for the discipline in the United States and Canada. Students learn to develop and communicate design concepts, solve design problems, and present solutions in an effective and professional manner. They also learn the specific knowledge and skills necessary to practice interior design, such as color theory, design history, hand and computer drafting, space planning, selection of interior finishes, building codes, and interior lighting.

Major in Nutrition and Foods

Majors study the relationships between the dietary intake of whole foods, processed foods, functional foods and dietary supplements with the health of individuals and populations. Majors prepare for careers in medical nutrition therapy, food service administration, public health nutrition programs, government agencies, private practice, and consulting. The program also prepares majors for pursuing advanced degrees, academic research, and careers in food and wellness industries. The Dietetics track is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Education in Nutrition and Dietetics (ACEND) and also fulfills didactic requirements for Texas licensing. Graduates of this track will receive a Verification Statement and are qualified to apply for post-graduate dietetic internships in pursuit of Registered Dietitian certification. See note below regarding admittance to the Child Development Center and Texas Teacher Certification Requirements.

Note: Admittance to the Child Development Center and Texas Teacher Certification Program

Child Development Center. Be advised that in the State of Texas, criminal convictions may affect a person's ability to be present in a Licensed or Certified Child Care facility (Chapter 42, Human Resources Code). Therefore, students enrolling in course work which requires any of the following: observation or participation at the campus Child Development Center; or observing or student teaching in K-12 grade Texas schools must undergo a criminal background check. Criminal history will be reviewed and students may be subject to an investigation based on that criminal history.

Texas Teacher Certification Program. Criminal Background checks are required for progression through the Educator Preparation Program. Based on the information recorded in your criminal history, you may be ineligible for issuance of a certificate upon completion of the Educator Preparation Program. If you have a criminal history, the Office of Educator Preparation (OEP) recommends you pay for a Preliminary Criminal History Evaluation, from the Texas Education Agency, schedule an appointment for free legal counseling services through Texas State University’s Attorney for Students, and disclose this information to the OEP.
