
The Round Rock Campus Library (RRC Library) supports the research and information needs of faculty and students at the growing Round Rock Campus. Librarians and library assistants are on site to help guide research and support students and faculty in Round Rock. Materials from the Alkek Library or the Archives and Research Center can be delivered in short order so that the RRC benefits from all the resources of a large university library in the intimate and comfortable environment of the RRC Library. The library is located in room 255 of the Avery Building and makes resources, computers, and printers available to the campus community. Online resources and services are available to both campus communities through the shared University Libraries website (library.txst.edu (<https://www.library.txst.edu/>)). For campus-specific information for the RRC Library, including hours and other services, visit the RRC Library website (<https://www.library.txst.edu/rrc/>) (library.txst.edu/rrc) or call the library at 512.716.4700.
