The Center for Diversity and Gender Studies in the College of Liberal Arts administers both the Diversity Studies minor at the undergraduate level and the Women’s Studies minor at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The Center helps prepare students to work and live in a pluralistic society through curricular and co-curricular activities — symposia, workshops, exhibits, theater productions, diversity reading discussions, and research projects. In addition, it assists faculty with resources and professional development activities to encourage the infusion of multiculturalism in the curriculum through a Multicultural Curriculum Transformation and Research Institute. It houses a resource area with more than 300 books, articles, and syllabi. The Center sponsors a Women and Gender Research Collaborative with its own online professional peer reviewed Journal of Research on Women and Gender. Through private donations, Diversity and Gender Studies offers annual scholarships to students. The director of the Center works in collaboration with an advisory council of faculty and staff representing several Texas State colleges and departments.

Key issues for prospective minors to consider:

- Tomorrow’s graduates will be entering a work force dominated by technological, service, and communication industries with an increasingly diverse workplace and clientele.
- Employer demand is increasing for diversity knowledge and skills among today’s college students.
- In 2010, the Hispanic, Asian and African American population in Texas grew to approximately 53%—or the majority in the state.
- Well-rounded graduates have included in their liberal arts education a greater knowledge of their cultural history and traditions.
