The minor in Peace and Social Justice Studies requires 18 semester credit hours. This minor is an interdisciplinary minor in that focuses on practical questions of how to realize peace and justice in the everyday world. It is designed to provide students with a historical perspective on injustice and corresponding movements for social justice and on the philosophy and methods of nonviolent protest and conflict resolution. It cultivates the knowledge and skills necessary to build peace with justice locally, at the family and community level, while also preparing students for a wide range of occupations in governmental and nongovernmental organizations that focus on diplomatic problem-solving and mediation of disputes.
