
Trauth-Huffman Hall Room 146

T: 512.245.7952 F: 512.245.7908

www.txstate.edu/universityseminar/ (<https://www.txstate.edu/universityseminar/>)

University Seminar (US 1100 (<http://mycatalog.txstate.edu/search/?P=US%201100>)) helps first-year students transition successfully to Texas State University by connecting new students to the campus and its resources, developing skills that support academic success, encouraging involvement in the university community, and exploring career opportunities. The course is designed to be taken during a student's first semester at Texas State, and its small class setting allows students to get to know each other as well as their faculty member.

The course is taught by a diverse group of professors, staff members, and administrators from departments across the university. All have at least a master's degree and lend their unique and varied perspectives to enrich each classroom. Distinct sections of the course may serve students with common interests. These are labeled in the Schedule of Classes.

Subjects in this department include: US

Course in University Seminar (US)

US 1100. University Seminar.

University Seminar is an introduction to the nature and aims of university education, with special emphasis on the value of broad learning. US 1100 is required of all undergraduate students entering the university with 0-15 semester credit hours completed since high school graduation.

1 Credit Hour. 1 Lecture Contact Hour. 0 Lab Contact Hours.

Course Attribute(s): Exclude from 3-peat Processing

Grade Mode: Standard Letter